Treatment Philosophy and Design Basis

1. Raw Water Storage Tank:

The feed (raw) water shall be stored in this tank. This tank will be covered from the top to avoid algae formation and covered top protects water from getting contaminated from impurities present in atmosphere.

2. Raw Water Transfer Pump:

3. Multi grade Sand Filter :

For particles suspended in water, the use of MGF filter system will be used for method of pretreatment. MGF filter system shall be installed as a standard and acting as a protective filter upstream of the actual treatment units for the requirement of soft water.

Their task is to protect the following units against mechanical damage by coarse particles often present in different sources of water.

MGF shall remove the suspended solids to less than 5 ppm. The filter has to be back washed once in day with in fluent water for 10minutes. This unit must be provided with pressure gauges to monitor the pressure at inlet of filter.

4. Softening Unit :

This shall contains a bed of ion exchange INDION Resin though which water containing positive ions passes and in the process it exchanges sodium ions for the positive ions present in the water. All the positive ions salts present in the water are thus converted to there equivalent sodium salts which have no scale forming properties. This unit is for the removal of hardness of the water.

5. Soft Water Storage Tank:

The treated water shall be stored in this tank. This tank should be covered from the top to avoid algae formation and covered top protects water from getting contaminated from impurities present in atmosphere.
